

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system for inventorying remote objects and management of assets, the system including a plurality of radio frequency tags associated with a respective object; at least one reader configured to interrogate the tags with radio frequency identification signals to receive data from the tags in response to command and control signals; and a remote device coupled to the Internet and configured to transmit command and control signals via the Internet to the reader and to receive from the reader data uploaded to the Internet that is received from the tags via the reader.

C:\NrPortb\NiManage\ATHENAPI\424331_1.DOC